4. [redacted] has been asked to check on the Longevity Computation Dates of all military JOT's. This is the outgrowth of observing errors that have cropped up recently.

5. We are making an effort to determine the degree to which JOT's with unusually good competence in foreign languages are using or being encouraged to use their languages while they are undergoing on-the-desk training. There is some reason to believe that this aspect of their experience is being neglected, with the resulting loss in proficiency--this despite incentive awards that are available to them. A fuller report will be made in due course.

6. [redacted] was ill for four days. Under the Regulations, she was required to report to the Medical Office. The Medical Office in turn required a report from her physician in such a manner as might have blown her cover. As a result of this incident and the complications involved, we have asked the Cover Division to work out ways and means whereby in the future inquiries from the Medical Office will not blow the cover of JOT's who may be ill.
